DD/S [REDACTED]

1. I talked with [REDACTED] about our plans to assign him as Chief of Support in the Office of Logistics this next summer. He would prefer an overseas assignment but was certainly not displeased with the Logistics assignment. This whole series of transfers should work somewhat as follows: Paul will turn over his duties as Chief of Support, WH Division, to [REDACTED] by about 1 February 1963. Paul will then report to the Office of DD/S to relieve Mel [REDACTED] who will be going to DD/R. Paul will be used here on special assignments until he takes leave (probably in May). Upon his return he will then go to the Office of Logistics to relieve [REDACTED] so that Dick can take leave and enter the Industrial War College in August 1963.

2. I talked briefly with John Tietjen about his project having to do with "Application of Bioelectronic Techniques and Systems to Monitor Human Physiological Responses." I told him that, while I did not question that the project was a worthwhile one, I found it rather dry reading and felt that he must be prepared to put on a "sexy" presentation to other senior officials if we are going to sell it. I said that I thought we should proceed somewhat as follows: Sell it first to DD/P and then to DD/R; afterwards we might make a presentation at the Executive Committee Meeting or to General Carter. In any case, we should get this accepted as a project which the Agency would like to undertake when funds are available. I told John that I had no funds with which to get started on the project now and that we could only hope that something will turn up from year-end savings during the ^{fourth} quarter of Fiscal Year 1964/1963.
